Dear Dr. Goldentyer and Dr. Gibbens,

I am writing on behalf of PETA to request that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) promptly investigate apparent violations of the Animal Welfare Act (AWA) by George Carden Circus Int'l (43-C-0025) and Larry Dean Carden (43-C-0353) (collectively, "Carden"), Mitchel Kalmanson (58-C-0505), Lance Ramos Kollman (unlicensed), and Jennifer Caudill (58-C-1109) exhibiting with the UniverSoul Circus (unlicensed).

The enclosed footage, recorded on November 21 during UniverSoul's performances at the Metrolina Expo Center and Fairgrounds in Charlotte, North Carolina, shows the following apparent AWA violations, described in detail in the attached appendix:

- The elephants Cindy and Betty, exhibited by Larry Dean Carden, showed signs of stiffness during performances and rides. See Video 1 (full elephant act), Video 2 (Cindy's lameness during a performance), Video 3 (Cindy's lameness while giving rides), and Video 4 (Betty's lameness while giving rides).
- Carden aggressively used a bullhook on Cindy during two performances. See Video 5.
- Pronounced lumps were documented on the forelimbs of elephants, indicating possible trauma. See Photos 1–5.
- Tigers exhibited by Kalmanson were confined to extremely small cages and showed signs of aggravation and distress. See Video 6.
- On November 22, a witness saw Kollman backstage handling zebras exhibited by Caudill, and a circus employee stated that the animals were owned and exhibited by Kollman, whose license has been revoked by the USDA.

Please investigate these apparent violations and ensure that no injured or lame animal is forced to perform or give rides. Please also ensure that the animals used in the UniverSoul Circus are provided with adequate veterinary care and handled in accordance with the AWA. Please also hold Carden, Kalmanson, Kollman, Caudill, and UniverSoul accountable to the fullest extent of the law.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter. Please inform me of the complaint number that your agency assigns to this correspondence.

Very truly yours,

I. Elephants Exhibited by Carden

a. Lame Elephants Forced to Perform and Give Rides

A witness observed and documented two performances of UniverSoul Circus on November 21. Elephant expert Dr. Philip K. Ensley reviewed the footage and noted several instances of lameness in the two female elephants, Cindy and Betty.

During the afternoon performance (see Video 1), Cindy was showing extreme stiffness in her right foreleg just after she was forced to balance on her forelimbs in a "handstand" trick (see Video 2).

During the intermission of each performance, Cindy and Betty were used for rides. While giving these rides during the evening performance intermission, Cindy's right foreleg was noticeably stiff while she walked (see Video 3) and Betty's left foreleg was noticeably stiff while she walked (see Video 4). Both elephants were loaded with seven or eight people per ride.

Forcing lame elephants to perform and give rides plainly violates 9 C.F.R. § 2.131 (b)(1) and (d)(1), which state that, respectively, "[h]andling of all animals shall be done as expeditiously and carefully as possible in a manner that does not cause trauma, ... behavioral stress, physical harm, or unnecessary discomfort" and "[a]nimals shall be exhibited only for periods of time and under conditions consistent with their good health and well-being."

This is not the first time that Carden has forced Betty and other elephants to perform while lame. A USDA inspection in 2011 found that Betty had "intermittent stiffness of the front-limbs," while two other elephants used by Carden (Tory and Bimbo) had "severe stiffness of the front limbs and abnormal gait." USDA, Inspection Report of George Carden Circus Int'l (Mar. 17, 2011). And earlier this year, Ensley observed the Cardens using the elephant Carol for rides, even though she was showing signs of "lameness, pelvic discomfort and pain." The USDA has also repeatedly cited the Cardens for failing to provide elephants with adequate veterinary care for foot and toenail ailments.

Allowing the Cardens to continue to use these elephants for rides and in performances jeopardizes their health and well-being and is inconsistent with the mandates of the AWA.

b. Abusive Handling During Performances

During both performances, handler Larry Dean Carden used a bullhook to tug aggressively on Cindy's back to get her to lie down, even though the barbaric tool inflicts pain and discomfort on animals (see Video 5). Ensley reviewed the footage and stated that "this activity goes beyond what is often referred to as 'cueing using a guide.'"

Using a bullhook in this manner appears to violate 9 C.F.R. § 2.131(b)(2)(i), which requires that "[p]hysical abuse shall not be used to train, work, or otherwise handle animals."

c. Possible Wounds Visible on Elephants During Performances

Footage from the performances shows multiple lumps on the elephants Bo and Cindy. On Bo's right foreleg there are two visible lumps near his shoulder and ankle (see Photos 1 and 2). Bo also appears to have another similar lump on his left foreleg shoulder (see Photo 3). Upon reviewing the footage, Ensley noted that he saw the same or similar lumps on Bo in February of this year (see Photos 4–6). He opined that:

Most likely the shoulder lump (closer to the elbow) is the result of a past traumatic event, sharp or blunt, and has resulted in a circumscribed area of fibrous scar tissue as a sequella. The ankle area lump could be from arthritic episodes due to stress to the joint. Radiographs could differentiate soft tissue from boney tissue change associated with arthritis or from dense scar tissue surrounding the joint produced from chronic stress to the joint.

Cindy appears to have a lump on her right foreleg shoulder (see Photo 7). The presentation is consistent with a hook boil.

Ensley also noted that "it appears [an] area has been moistened or an ointment or medication has been applied to [Cindy's] left foreleg," which indicates that she may have a lesion and should be evaluated by a veterinarian (see Photo 8).

Please promptly inspect the elephants used by Carden, along with their veterinary records, and ensure that they're receiving adequate veterinary care in accordance with the mandates of 9 C.F.R. § 2.40 and that no injured animal is forced to perform in violation of the AWA.

II. Tigers Exhibited by Mitchel Kalmanson

During both performances, trainers performed a trick that involved three white tigers on stage inside cages that were hardly bigger than the tigers themselves. The cages did not appear large enough for the tigers to stand normally—they had to hold their heads low and bend their bodies to fit. One of the cages was suspended in the air. According to the witness, the cages "were being spun in circles and the tigers appeared agitated, especially the one in the box hanging from the ceiling. He or she was pacing back and forth rapidly." During the second performance, the witness stated that "the tiger who was in the cage that had been elevated toward the ceiling was pacing rapidly [again] and the tiger in the cage on the right was walking quickly in circles." These actions are evident in Video 6.

The repetitive stereotypical movements of these animals indicate psychological distress. Abnormal pacing and circling behavior suggests poor welfare and suffering¹ and indicates that Kalmanson is exhibiting these tigers in apparent violation of 9 C.F.R. § 2.131(d)(1) and is not providing them with sufficient space, in apparent violation of 9 C.F.R. § 3.128, which mandates that animals be provided with "sufficient space to allow each animal to make normal postural and social adjustments with adequate freedom of movement. Inadequate space may be indicated by evidence of ... stress or abnormal behavior patterns."

As noted in PETA's previous correspondence, Kalmanson has historically confined tigers to extremely small cages, and the USDA has cited him repeatedly for failing to provide big cats with sufficient space and opportunities to exercise. See complaint number E14-072, correspondence from PETA to the USDA dated November 6, 2013. As recently as April 2015, the USDA cited him for failing to provide tigers and big cats being used in the circus with adequate space and exercise. According to that inspection report, the tigers were being provided with only 39.67 feet² for each animal, and Kalmanson was not taking the tigers out of his transport cages for daily exercise "due to the performance schedule."² In fact, just days after he was cited for failing to provide the tigers with adequate space and exercise, the exhibitor claimed in correspondence with another federal agency that the AWA's space and exercise requirement was "not in the law" and is instead a "new USDA admin in house memorandum," even though he has been repeatedly cited for denying animals adequate space over the last 15 years.³

Kalmanson was cited twice in 2013 for holding tigers in their transport cages "24 hours per day, 7 days a week[,] for the entire 4–7 weeks they are on the road or longer if they are not switched out with other animals."⁴ In fact, the only time that the tigers were removed from their transport cages was for performances, when they were moved into an even smaller plexiglass case. The USDA noted that "the tigers should have an opportunity, at least daily, for exercise outside of the limited space of their transport cages where they should be able to stretch to their full vertical height and length with adequate freedom of movement in a safe and secure location."⁵

In addition, the USDA cited Kalmanson in 2002 for housing "four large adult tigers" together in a single travel trailer that "did not allow sufficient space for all the tigers to move freely" and denying them any opportunity to exercise while at a circus venue.⁶ He has also been cited for denying adequate space and exercise to dogs and chimpanzees.⁷

Please ensure that the tigers' housing arrangements do not violate 9 C.F.R. § 3.128 and AWA Policy #6: Space and Exercise Requirements for Traveling Exhibitors,⁸ which states that "adequate freedom of movement" includes the ability to exercise. Policy #6 further provides that in cases where an exhibitor is unable to supply a primary enclosure that is sufficiently large for exercise, the exhibitor must release the animals regularly into a "secure space ... that provides the opportunity for species-appropriate exercise. This release should occur at least once per day for an appropriate length of time [and] [t]hese periods will be in addition to regular performance and practice time" (emphasis added).

As you investigate these apparent violations, please also inspect these tigers, as well as their veterinary records, and ensure that they're receiving adequate veterinary care, pursuant to 9 C.F.R. § 2.40.

III. Possible Illegal Exhibition by Lance Ramos Kollman

On November 22, the witness spoke with a circus employee who escorted the witness backstage. According to the witness:

⁸See USDA Animal Welfare Inspection Guide (2013)

During our conversation, "Sean" told me that there were "maybe 10" dogs who were traveling with the circus, even though the circus does not perform an act that includes them. "Sean" said that the dogs belong to Lance and Lance most likely brought them on the road with him because he did not have anyone to watch the dogs while he was away. "Sean" said that Lance owns all of the dogs, ponies, zebras, and tigers at UniverSoul. "Sean" said that the man on stage during the zebra show was one of Lance's "guys."

As we turned the corner to get back to where the camels were kept, I saw Lance Ramos [Kollman]. Lance was standing in front of where the ponies were kept and another man was standing at the fence line in front of him ... I then watched Lance, Jennifer [Caudill], and the man I had just passed at the fence lead all of the zebras from the enclosure they were kept in to the back entrance of the tent and then they disappeared inside.

As you know, Kollman does not have a USDA license, yet he appears to be closely involved in regulated activity—namely, the exhibition and transport of animals. As you know from PETA's complaint dated November 16, 2015 (AC16-140), Kollman's transporting of zebras through the streets of Philadelphia after they escaped from UniverSoul was documented. Indeed, he is so closely involved in the exhibition and transport of animals that other circus employees believe he owns most of the animals performing with UniverSoul.

The AWA expressly prohibits this under 9 C.F.R. § 2.10(c), which states that "[a]ny person whose license has been suspended or revoked shall not buy, sell, transport, exhibit, or deliver for transportation, any animal during the period of suspension or revocation" (emphases added). The fact that Kollman is working behind the scenes, apparently for his fiancée (Caudill) or Kalmanson, does not nullify the apparent violation. As a USDA judicial officer recently made clear in Kollman's case, "This bar applies without limitation to any person whose Animal Welfare Act license has been revoked and that person's employment by another person who holds an Animal Welfare Act license is not relevant to the applicability of the bar."⁹ In fact, it is apparently unlawful for those licensees to employ Kollman as well because "the act, omission, or failure of any person acting for or employed by ... an exhibitor or person licensed as ... an exhibitor ... shall be deemed the act, omission, or failure of such ... exhibitor [or] licensee ... as well as of such person." 7 U.S.C. § 2139. If Kollman is "acting for" Caudill, Kalmanson, or any other exhibitor, then each and every one of his violations is attributable to the licensed exhibitor(s), and enforcement action against both the licensee(s) and Kollman is appropriate.

Because the USDA took the unequivocal enforcement action of revoking Kollman's license, there are no circumstances under which it is lawful for him to continue engaging in AWA-regulated activity.
